able at the office of the Secretary-Treasurer, and that lights will be cut off if accounts are not paid before the 30th inst.

By order of the Council,
F. Wright,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Operators Ask Govern- ment to Operate Mines

The mine operators have received the minister of labor at Ottawa, stating that they will not negotiate further in the mine situation, and urge that the government take immediate action to put mines in operation. Following is copy of message sent by Secretary W.
F. McNeill:

"Acting in accordance with our past agreements, and upon your advice, we met the miners' representatives and agreed with them upon the terms of a new agreement which they unanimously undertook to recommend for the acceptance of the men. This new agreement was voted down by the men on Saturday last and we are strongly of the opinion that its defeat was brought about largely by internal differences among the district and local officials. Under these conditions we feel it useless to negiate further and submit that the government should seek the new agreement is put into effect or some other means adopted to get the mines in operation and save the country further embarrassment during the period of the war."

Fashion inventors are wondering where a new idea motor veil would be of most service, whether on the head, wrist or skirt.

The Greenwood Lodge says: "We take potatoes for subscription, when cash is not available, and twenty pounds of onions will not be turned down for a year's sub."

Advice to New Arrivals

Avoid the vicinity of burning shells.
They take the most unwarranted liberties with your physique.If you have any particular (special) feature of which you are proud, such as an exceptionally symmetrical shouder, conceal it carefully from enemy sharpshooters.
The alterations might not suit you.Be absent from the neighborhood of riflesgrenades when they are on the point of arriving. They are no respecters of the King's uniform, and khaki shows stains so easily.Never use your clasp-knife for to pry the nose off an unexploded shell. You might break the blade and lose a day's pay for denting your government property.Have no dealings with the trench mortar bomb. It does not advertise.The sign of the minimenwerer may be a most redemptive shield, but show your appreciation by lying down. Miners may suffer a nasty lunge if you don't.When you hear sweet soprano notes of a traversing machine-gun, stoop. Bullets enlarge the process.Refrain from excessive curiosity as to the construction and propulsive power of an enemy bomb. You might find out.

Don't over-exert when in the front line.

If an old timer tells you to go out and point the listening-post, hit him with anything loose and handy.Be absent from the line of flight of a bullet in the open, otherwise, you'll any familiarity with a thick parapet.Don't look up at an over head Tangle.
The wailer may be chewing tobacco.Don't look over the parapet to see what the Germans look like. You can smell the good ones.If you suspect any of your comrades of being a rat, rat, when him, slowly. If you catch him in the act, lay him on right.Finally, if through carelessness, ignorance or sheer bad luck you should happen to get hit, conceal your money in your sock, before the stretcher bearer has time to go through you; simulate semi-delirium, and moan faintly—"Yum, yum"—you may not get any, of course, but it's always worth the chance.Annual Report Neglected And Dependent
Children

Conservation is one of the big words of the twentieth century. We talk quite glibly about the conservation of our natural resources; we mean, of course, our timber, mineral and land wealth. Our phenomenal natural assets would be of little value, however, if it were not for a race of honest, industrious men and women who, by their ingenuity and enterprise, take things in their crude undeveloped state, and turn them into conservation for the world. "Things are in the middle, and ripe mankind, they say," So wrote Emerson fifty years ago, and there are critics of the American poet who affirm that if he were alive today, he would say the same thing, only with tenfold greater emphasis. Yet, we see on every hand evidence that the civilized world is beginning to think more of persons and less of property. It is the business of the Department of Neglected and Dependent Children to conserve, as far as possible, the orphans, the children of parents who are unable of looking after their own offspring, or who have become criminals, in order that they may have an opportunity to develop into sturdy, healthy men and women. Unless these children are given some special care, they will inevitably be lost to society.

The report of the Department to hand, indicates that during the year 1916 some six dependent children and 500 delinquents were brought under its care. The complaints is placed on the "placing out system." There are four shelters or reformatory homes in the Province, maintained by the four largest cities. Wards of the Department are detained there only for a brief time. There is no difficulty in securing good foster homes for all normal, well developed children. Institutions produce what is known as the "institutional type," a kind of machine, lacking initiative and strength of personality. A child developing normally under normal conditions, and the only normal condition for a child is in some good home.

The report indicates that war conditions have had an effect upon the delinquent problem. During the year, an increase of nearly 80% was noted over the preceding year. The reason for this was given as follows:

1. Decrease in parental control owing to absence of so many fathers.
2. The fact that so many make believe for whom the boys had the greatest respect have joined the forces, and as a result little individual attention can be given.
3. The spirit of adventure is in the air, children hear from friends and in news thrilling accounts of trench warfare and other excitements, and their lower instincts lead them into many offences.
Smaller or greater increases have been noted in England and other countries not at war.

While the delinquency has increased nearly 80%, there has been a slight decrease in the number of girl delinquents.

A great deal of care is taken of the latter class. In the cities, the Children's Aid Societies provide Matrons who give them special care and supervision. Earning their own living under the care of a big sister, a great many of them are saved for themselves and society.

There are incorrigible boys and girls who have to be treated in institutions.
For the present the boys are cared for in the Industrial Training School at Portage La Prairie, and the girls in one or other of the Special Service Homes of the Province.

According to the report, there is need at the present time in this Province, an institution to provide care and training for mental defectives, and a suitable institution for delinquent girls. The institution for mental defectives should provide for such training as will enable the majority to become practically self-supporting. Care of this class should not be confined to the children, but to women of child bearing age. It is urged that an institution for delinquent girls provide for their re-education according to age and type, and for proper industrial training.

A parcel of the booklet indicates that the Department has received the hearty co-operation of a great number of individuals and societies interested in the problem of conserving the wasteage of society.

The Professor's Bulletin

No. 18. "IF IT IS," "IF IT IS." What determines which form one should use? The rule is this—Boiling with present time.
If the condition is being fulfilled, one uses "if it is," while, if the condition is a pure hypothesis, which is not being fulfilled—and for that matter, may never be fulfilled—one uses "if it be." Again, dealing with past time—if the condition has been fulfilled, one uses "if it was," while, if the condition has not been fulfilled, one uses "if it were." ("If it were" is frequently used also in present time. For example,—"If it were true, I should be surprised.")

"IF IT HAPPENS": "IF IT HAPPENS." Here, if we are dealing with a circumstance which exists in fact, we use the singular form of the verb; while, if we are dealing with a circumstance which exists only in hypothesis, or which, consequently, may some time be realized in fact, we use the plural form of the verb.

and second prizes were given to Marjorie Murphy and Katie Banner, respectively. The handkerchiefs were auctioned off and bids came mostly from visitors who had gathered in to hear the afternoon's program. The first-prize handkerchief sold for 45 cents. Mostall of them went for good figures.
We feel sure this is a most interesting work for the children.

Live Merchants Make Their Advertising of Immediate Value To You.

They know that "purse interest" is very strong with you these days. If they are able to offer you a money-saving opportunity they will tell you about it promptly in their advertisements.

They know that you expect them to keep you in touch with their "store news." They will give you the store news while it is fresh and valuable to you--while it is current news.

They know that you buy "in the light"--that you want to know about commodities and their selling prices--that you have abandoned the old habit of "shopping around" and that you visit stores with previously formed plans for your buying.

Knowing these things, live merchants tell you their store news in every issue of this paper.

ing last, in celebration of Miss Mary L. Walsh's—twelfth birthday. A party of fourteen friends were present, including Miss Dobbie and brother, Mr. Leveson and Miss Inez Walsh, from Pincher Creek.

"The Cow Bill"

The Live Stock Encouragement Act, which was passed at the recent session of the Alberta Legislature, commonly known as "The Cow Bill," is now in operation, and applications are being received at the Department of Agriculture for loans under this Act. The Act provides that any five or more farmers may avail themselves of its provisions by joining together for that purpose. These men may borrow up to $500 each. The money is loaned to them for a period of five years at 6 per cent. interest. The farmer receives the full $500 and he has nothing to pay but $30 interest once a year until the end of five years. The only expense in connection with the loan is a fee of $1 for every $100 borrowed. There is no further expense in connection with chattel mortgages or the registration of the same, as the Live Stock Commission is in the Department of Agriculture holds the cattle in security for the loan by means of a government trust. A certain amount of supervision is made over the purchase of the cattle, or rather, the farmer is given whatever assistance he may require in the purchase of his cow. The money must be used exclusively in the purchase of cows or heifers, except in case a number of members of an association wish to purchase a pure-bred bull to be used by them as an association, and then 10 per cent. of their money may be used for that purpose.

The purchaser of live stock under this Act must retain the progeny of the cow or heifer as purchased until the note is paid, except that he can sell the steers when they are two years old and use the proceeds in connection with his farming business. None of the original cows or heifers, or cows or heifers bred from them, can be sold without the written consent of the Live Stock Commissioner. This consent, of course, will be given in case a farmer should require to sell any of them on account of their being non-breeders or for any other reason, replacing those sold with other cows or heifers. In this way the live stock loans will practically all be well secured after the first crop of calves has been raised, so that there will be a considerably small amount of risk either for the Government or for any individual member of an association.

In order to avail themselves of this loan, live farmers are asked to join together, signing joint and several notes for the money, so that in case of any man wilfully neglecting his stock there will be some interested person in the shape of another member of the syndicate to notify the Live Stock Commissioner, and, under the provisions of this Act, can take charge of the stock so neglected, and sell the other members of the syndicate as well as the Government are protected against loss.

Provision is also made in the Act for the Live Stock Commissioner to proceed against the one man who neglects his stock and compel him to pay whatever loss there is without involving the other members of the syndicate in a lawsuit, the idea being to work out, as simply as possible, a system by which man can borrow money at a low rate of interest for the purchase of live stock, and still have reasonable protection for the Treasury of the Province of Alberta, which guarantees these loans, and thus materially reduces the rate of interest.

Already a number of applications have been received from associates, and the Live Stock Commissioner is now prepared to take the matter up with any farmers who are interested in the Act. Write the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, for information, forms of application and copies of The Live Stock Encouragement Act.

The minister had just preached his farewell sermon to the congregation with whom he had had much trouble.

"How beautiful!" said a visitor, to one of the deacons; "and how appropriate for a farewell sermon!"

"Think so?" said the deacon, gruffly.

"Why, yes. What better text could he find than 'In My Father's House are many Mansions. . . I go to prepare a place for you.' By the way, where is he going?"

The deacon smiled sourly as he answered. "He becomes chaplain of a convict prison."

Style—Comfort Power—Economy

This new Overland Country Club Light Four is a distinctive and smart car in the low priced car class. The rich gray body, with black fenders and trimmings, is set off to pleasing advantage by red wire wheels that give just the right flash of brilliant color. The two comfortable front seats move forward or back, independently, and a spacious aisle between gives free passage to a roomy seat for two passengers in the rear.

For riding comfort, the Overland Country Club is a revelation. An unusual design for this model makes it necessary to place orders at once to secure spring delivery.
